

STAR PROTOCOL

Synergic Therapy with Association of Remedies

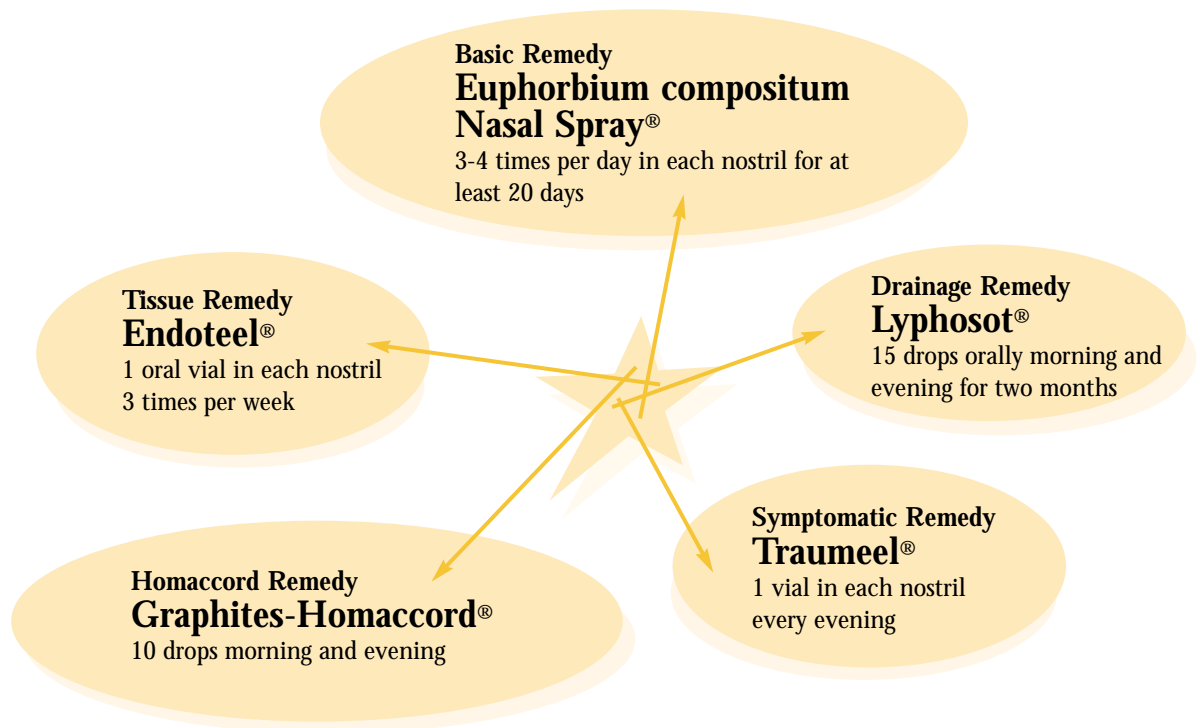

SINUSITIS

Definition

Acute sinusitis affects approximately 3 out of 1,000 people. Some people never get sinusitis, and others experience sinusitis frequently. Sinusitis occurs when there is an undrained collection of pus in one or more of the sinuses. Disorders that cause swelling of the membranes of the nose, such as allergic rhinitis, viral respiratory infections or colds are the most common cause because the swelling prevents fluid from draining out of the sinus normally. The pain of sinusitis results from the inflammation itself or from pressure within the sinus from an accumulation of undrained fluid. Acute sinusitis infections are usually curable with treatment. However, when sinusitis recurs and lasts longer than three months, it is classified as chronic.

Through the patient's medical history, Homotoxicology® attempts to identify the reasons for sinusitis and treats the condition by taking care of the basic problem.

You can choose 2 to 3 medications at the most that will fit your patient's needs. See reverse for further examples.

The bridge between classical homeopathy and mainstream medicine

STAR PROTOCOL

Synergic Therapy with Association of Remedies

Usual treatment

Euphorbium compositum Nasal Spray® 3-4 times per day in each nostril for at least 20 days
Traumeel® 1 vial in each nostril every evening until improvement.

Chronic and preventive treatment

Ubicoenzyme® 15 drops orally morning and evening for two months
Lyphosot® 15 drops orally morning and evening for two months.

When Treating Children

Graphites-Homaccord® 10 drops morning and evening
Calcoheel® 1 tablet morning and evening
Osteel® 1 tablet morning and evening
Endoteel® 1 vial in each nostril 3 times per week.

Bibliography and references

- Bianchi I. Pediatra e Omotossicologia, Guna ed. Milano 1996
- Bianchi I. Argomenti di Omotossicologia vol. 2, Guna ed. Milano 1990
- Raue S. Diseases of Children Jain Publ. New Delhi 1985
- Schmid F. Antihomotoxische Medizin, Aurelia Verlag Baden-Baden 1996

This suggested treatment of Sinusitis is based on Dr. Ivo Bianchi's clinical experience and his studies in the fields of medicine and Homotoxicology.

This clinical scheme is not a prescription and we do not accept medical or legal responsibility for misuse of this information.

Dr Bianchi, medical doctor, researcher, author and speaker, lectures yearly across the country for Heel Canada Inc.

This information stems from Dr. Bianchi's October 1998 presentation on Pediatric Disorders.

<http://www.scienceandnature.net/>

HOMOTOXICOLOGY®:

The modern and scientific Homeopathy.

HOMOTOXICOLOGY®